Forecast For London & Southeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Tuesday 12 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Brightening up today, before becoming wet again tomorrow.

Today:
A mild and cloudy start for most with outbreaks of rain and drizzle steadily easing. Becoming brighter from the north through the afternoon with plenty of sunshine. Winds will be light, and it will turn colder through the day. Maximum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Tonight:
A widespread frost soon developing overnight under clear and starry skies. Cloud will steadily increase through the early hours, but it will remain dry. Minimum temperature -2 deg C (28 deg F).

Wednesday:
Starting bright in the east, but quickly clouding over with outbreaks of rain spreading to most areas by midday. Cold at first but turning milder. Maximum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Rain, heavy at times continuing through Thursday, but gradually easing. Dry and bright on Friday after a frosty and icy start. Further rain likely on Saturday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.